Thursday, July 20: What's New?

It's what's new for July!

What's New

Got company coming into town – or looking for a quick weekend getaway for yourself? In Cambridge, the new Freepoint Hotel offers eye candy from local artists, a secret garden for chilling, and a breakfast bowl to get you started; or check into the Seaport’s Yotel, where guests go to Mission Control to make their own keys, and the cabins (not rooms) pack a lot into just 153 square feet. Also tonight, we find international tastes at Allston’s LimeRed Teahouse, with Taiwanese bubble teas, Hong Kong waffles and azuki bean lattes; and see how the “wine friendly food” with a French accent of Troquet on South continues in a new location. Plus, a new place to tell your story is online at the Podcast Garage; and augmented reality is creating unreal landscapes on the Salem waterfront.
